

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

§ 1. THE written materials which exist for the illustration of the History of Scotland during the Middle Ages may conveniently be divided into two great sections; that is to say, Chronicles or connected Histories, and Miscellaneous Documents. Within the former class we may include such writers as Wynton, Fordun,<sup>1</sup> Bower, Elphinston, and a few others; the latter class consists of letters, accounts, charters, papal bulls, depositions, pleadings, proclamations, Acts of Parliament, inquisitions, and other instruments of a kindred nature. Each class has its own special merits. The Historian aims at presenting to his reader a consecutive narrative which shall exhibit facts in their scientific order; he traces events to their true causes, exhibits their mutual dependence upon each other, and analyses the motives by which the actors whom he introduces were severally influenced, and the objects which each had in view. On the other hand, the documents to which a secondary rank has been assigned above, from their very nature seldom present any such characteristics as those which belong to the more ambitious history or chronicle. For the most part, they occupy a subsidiary position, seldom rising to the dignity of history, properly so called. But, assuming them to be original and contemporaneous, they place before us the materials for history in a form, which, as we presently shall see, has a very special claim upon our attention.

§ 2. It must not be assumed, however, from what has been here stated, that these two classes of historical material are to be regarded as antagonistic the one to the other. Each possesses recommendations in which the other is defective; and it is by the union of the two (where that is possible) that perfection is attained. The chronicler or historian of early days groups his information, and elicits truth by the mere arrangement into which he throws his matter; and thus it is that details, which might seem in themselves to be of no immediate value, become of primary importance when placed by him in what he believes to be their true position. The narrative in all its bearings is so presented to the reader that each incident out of which it is constructed assumes its due proportions. Surveying at one glance the whole series of events from the beginning to the end he comprehends the subject in all its varied bearings, and thus he furnishes the student of history with a clue which guides him through what otherwise would be a labyrinth of entanglement.

§ 3. Yet it not unfrequently happens that our confidence in this guide is misplaced, and that the authority with which we invest him so willingly is employed to lead us astray from the point at which we wish to arrive. The chronicler or the historian may be untrustworthy through ignorance or malice. He may be misinformed or careless at one time ; or he may be prejudiced or dishonest at another. He may distort facts and misinterpret motives. Even if he is acting for the most part in simple good faith, it is difficult for the most ingenuous writer entirely to escape from the various subtle influences which are too apt, unless held in check, to give a tone and a colouring to his narrative. There is the temptation to judge of the whole series of events by the form which they ultimately assume, disregarding the aspect in which they presented themselves before that end was attained. The fallacy of "Postea, ideo propter," is nowhere more frequently exemplified than in historical compositions. Thus, to take an illustration which lies close at hand : Fordun, and the other Scottish historians to whom reference has been made above, wrote after the independence of their country had been secured through the wonderful energy of Robert Bruce, and the family of Stewarts was firmly established on the throne. Hence it is that all the events which occurred from the death of Alexander the Third onwards are by them interpreted so as to fall into harmony with the national feeling which existed when these chronicles were severally written.

§ 4. Passing now to the Miscellaneous Documents to which we have assigned a subsidiary position, we have a few words to say in their recommendation. Without claiming the dignified rank of history, properly so called, they possess many of its most estimable qualities. For instance, in examining the documents contained in the present volumes, we find, in the first place, that many of them are written by persons who, from their official position, must have been intimately acquainted with the subject upon which they are writing. The private letters more especially are worthy of notice, since they have reference to the most secret affairs which were passing at the time. They make us acquainted not only with what was being done, but what was to be done; with the plans, fears, and wishes of the writer, and of those who were acting along with him. Again, we have various statements as to the expenditure of money, the details of which are given with a fulness and precision which put to shame the degenerate brevity of our modern system of accounts. We here read of the supply of troops and stores needed for the garrisons in Scotland, and of the help afforded or promised; suggestions as to the place where, and the time when, incursions should be made against the Scottish patriots, and reports how these incursions had succeeded; proposals for the surrender of such persons as had held out against the English invaders, and notifications of the terms upon which their surrender would be accepted. We see how

Edward rewarded his friends and punished his enemies. Upon all these points, and upon others too numerous to specify, the Record Offices supply us with details, the accuracy of which is above suspicion. In many instances these letters were written at the Council-board, during the discussion by the assembled lords of the subject to which they relate. In some cases, indeed, there is reasonable ground for concluding that they are private despatches dictated by the King himself to the clerk in attendance, and that they exhibit with precision his sentiments, feelings, and temper. There is an easy familiarity about some of them which points out their origin; and when we take into account the rank of the persons to whom they are addressed, we are compelled to admit that they could have been dictated only by King Edward. Thus he tells the Earl of March and Dunbar that the supineness of his proceedings against the Scotch (whom the Earl had allowed to escape) reminds him of a proverb which says that "When the war was over, Audiger drew his sword."<sup>1</sup> Writing to the Prince of Wales, he says that he does not know how the young nobles and knights in his company could more honestly win their shoes or boots than by joining in an expedition against the Scotch.<sup>2</sup> And in a letter to Robert Bruce, Earl of Carrick (3d March 1304), in order to encourage him to proceed with energy in the business which he had taken in hand, the King uses this remarkable expression, "The robe which you have made is well made, so be pleased to make the hood also."<sup>1</sup>

§ 5. It is possible, however, to advance a step nearer even than this to the inner thoughts and feelings of this stern enemy to the national independence of Scotland. The original drafts of several of the letters referred to in the last paragraph, as well as other documents equally interesting, are still extant; and the form in which they have come down to our times shows the deliberation with which Edward conducted the management of his affairs. His mode of procedure would appear to have been this. The draft of the letter which was about to be sent, after having been drawn up by the Chancellor according to the general instructions of the Council, was then examined by the King himself. Words were added or cancelled, clauses were inserted or removed, sometimes entire sentences were re-written by his dictation, until at length the required precision was attained, and the King's matured and deliberate meaning was transmitted to his correspondent. A noteworthy instance of this anxiety to avoid being misunderstood may be seen in the letter addressed to Alexander de Abernethy, in reply to the inquiry made by him as to the terms, if any, upon which he might accept the surrender of Sir William Wallace. The draft, when submitted to Edward's inspection, did not seem sufficiently precise ; accordingly it was altered to convey, beyond the possibility of a mistake, the assurance that nothing save the most unconditional surrender would be accepted.<sup>1</sup> Testimony such as this places history upon a firm basis.

§ 6. It is from this class of materials, then, that the documents contained in the present volumes have been selected. The source whence each has been procured is indicated in a footnote. A few have been gleaned from the unexplored treasures preserved in the libraries and archives of the Continent. The Papal Registers<sup>2</sup> have furnished several, and these not the least curious ; while others, equally interesting, have been impressed into our service from Paris,<sup>3</sup> Lille,<sup>4</sup> Ghent,<sup>5</sup> and Brussels.<sup>6</sup> The British Museum<sup>7</sup> has been put under contribution, and has afforded materials of the highest value. But it is to the Public Record Office that I am indebted for by far the largest portion of the documents now first brought together for the illustration of Scottish history ; and here my obligations become so numerous as to require a more distinct acknowledgment.

§ 7. It has long been known that in the various Record Offices (such as the Tower, the Chapter-House, the Queen's Remembrancer's Office, and various others), which are now brought together under the same roof in the Public Record Office, there exist numerous documents of various ages, of the highest importance as illustrating the early history of Scotland. From this source Ryley,<sup>1</sup> Prynne,<sup>2</sup> and Rymer<sup>3</sup> long ago drew the contributions which they made to our national history; and the more recent publication of Sir Francis Palgrave<sup>4</sup> proved that the mine was not yet exhausted. The opportunity being afforded me of examining these treasures at my leisure, it was not difficult to come to the conclusion that many of them were well worthy of publication; and the late lamented Dr. Joseph Robertson having brought their importance under the notice of the Lord Clerk-Register of Scotland, an order to that effect was given accordingly. Hence the work now before the reader.

§ 8. The documents contained in these volumes naturally fall under four divisions, corresponding with the four chronological periods to which they relate. They are as follows:—

<sup>4</sup> Documents and Records illustrating the History of Scotland, preserved in the Treasury of Her Majesty's Exchequer. Vol. i. 8vo, Lond. 1837. [No more published.]

1. From the accession of Queen Margaret of Norway, upon the death of King Alexander the Third, until the decease of the said Queen : from 15th March 1286 to Sept. 1290.
2. From the death of Queen Margaret of Norway until the accession of John Balliol : Sept. 1290 to 20th Nov. 1292.
3. The reign of John Balliol : 20th Nov. 1292 to 2d July 1296.
4. The War of Independence, from the deposition of John Balliol till the accession of King Robert Bruce : 2d July 1296 to Feb. 1306.

The period, therefore, embraced within these volumes covers nearly twenty years, and the documents here printed amount to above six hundred and fifty.

It is unnecessary to furnish in this place an abstract of these records, since this has already been done in the Table of Contents prefixed to each volume. But it may be desirable to give in somewhat greater detail a reference to such of the more important of them as are here printed for the first time. In attempting to do this I shall follow the arrangement pointed out in the previous section.

THE REIGN OF QUEEN MARGARET.

§ 9. Throughout the whole of his reign King Alexander the Third, while jealously maintaining his own dignity and the independence of his realm, had continued upon terms of friendly intercourse with his royal brother-in-law of England, who on his part had evinced corresponding tokens of goodwill. The letters which passed between them were cordial and affectionate.<sup>1</sup> When Alexander attended at Edward's coronation a daily allowance of 100 shillings was awarded to him from the Exchequer at Westminster,<sup>2</sup> and the same good feeling exhibited itself upon other occasions.<sup>3</sup> The disputes which arose from time to time between the inhabitants of the Borders were brought to an amicable settlement, towards the attainment of which there was certainly no lack of readiness upon the part of England. Upon one occasion, Alexander having requested that certain law-suits, which threatened to interrupt this cordiality, should be referred to an arbitration according to the laws and usages of the March, Edward readily assented, and issued a writ conceived in the same conciliatory spirit.<sup>4</sup> We are justified, therefore, in concluding that when the intelligence of the disaster (the death of Alexander) which occasioned a vacancy in the Scottish throne, reached the English Court, it was received with genuine sorrow.

§ 10. It was impossible, however, that a prince gifted with so much political foresight as King Edward should fail to perceive the importance of the event which had occurred so unexpectedly, and which threw so much power into his hands; nor need we imagine that he refrained from speculating how he might best turn it to his own advantage. The course which lay before him was simple and easy; nay, more than that, it presented itself to him as a duty. The crown of Scotland had now devolved upon an infant, and that infant a female. Edward had a son, who in the course of nature would succeed him. What could be more desirable than that a union of the two realms should be effected through the marriage of the Prince of Wales, the eldest son of the King of England, with the young Queen of Scotland? The same idea had already occurred to the Scottish Guardians, and had been cordially entertained by them. Within a fortnight from the death of the late King, the Bishops of St. Andrews and Glasgow, "in their own name, and in the name of the clergy, of the Earls and Barons, and of all others of the realm of Scotland, who had been present at the burial of the lord Alexander of good memory, the late King of Scotland," sent from Dunfermline two Dominican friars charged with an important message to the English Court.<sup>1</sup> We do not know with certainty its exact import, nor what was the answer which it received; but considering the place where it was written, and the circumstances under which it was despatched, we need have little difficulty in concluding that it related to the settlement of the Scottish succession. This much, however, is beyond dispute;—so confident did Edward feel as to the result of his negotiations with the governors and people of Scotland that he embarked for France shortly afterwards, and spent more than three years upon the Continent.

§ 11. Edward, however, was not aware that already one national party at least had formed itself in Scotland, and was prepared to take advantage of any accident which might open a path to the throne for a new claimant. The head of the family of Bruce lost no time in gathering round him a powerful body of adherents, a meeting of whom was held at Turnberry Castle, in order to concert a definite line of action. A bond of mutual defence was executed, which, while it made it impossible for any one of the contracting parties to withdraw from the confederacy, pledged each member to act in obedience to the decision of the majority, in other words, to support the claims of Robert Bruce. It passes over in silence the hereditary title of the Maiden of Norway; her name is not mentioned in the document; but it assumes that the throne of Scotland will be occupied by one of the royal blood, who shall obtain it "according to the ancient customs hitherto approved and observed in the realm of Scotland."<sup>1</sup>

§ 12. It would appear that this convention never came to the knowledge of the King of England, although it was joined by his son-in-law, the Earl of Gloucester; or, if it did, he treated it with indifference. We have evidence that, with his usual energy, he was carrying forward the necessary preliminaries for the marriage of his son with the little Queen of Scotland. Two messengers, Otho de Grandison and William de Hothum, were despatched to Rome to communicate certain important information, and to obtain a favour which the King solicited from the Pope;<sup>1</sup> and, as we learn from another document, this favour was a bull of dispensation for a contract of marriage between Prince Edward and "Margaret the heiress of Scotland."<sup>2</sup>

§ 13. Everything now promised a successful issue to the negotiations which, it was expected, would end in the union of the two kingdoms. Upon the arrival of the messengers at the Papal Court they had no difficulty in obtaining their request. A bull permitting, in general terms, a contract of marriage within the prohibited degrees, such as was required for the contemplated betrothal of Prince Edward and Queen Margaret, was issued from the Papal chancery.<sup>3</sup> Eric of Norway, who had in the meantime placed himself under weighty obligations to the King of England,<sup>4</sup> despatched his agents to discuss the terms of the marriage with the father of the intended bridegroom;<sup>5</sup> and upon their return into England (for Edward still lingered in France) all the details of the union were finally arranged, with the full consent and approbation of the nobles of the three realms.<sup>1</sup> Early in 1290 a conference, or parliament, held at Brigham,<sup>2</sup> confirmed a settlement of the Scottish crown upon the terms of the treaty of Salisbury; and nothing now remained for the happy union of the kingdoms save the betrothal of the boy and the girl by whom these kingdoms were represented.

§ 14. The first step which was necessary for the accomplishment of this object was to obtain possession of the Queen of Scotland. Within a month after the parliament of Brigham, the King of England sent into Norway an embassy, consisting of the Abbot of Welbec, Henry de Rye, and others, to make the preliminary arrangements for her departure.<sup>3</sup> It was expected that Eric would accompany his daughter, and much thoughtful anxiety was shown that during the voyage the comforts of the royal party should be attended to. With this view Edward caused a large ship to be arrested at Yarmouth, the victualling and decoration of which he intrusted to the chief butler of his own household, Matthew de Columbaris, who kept an account of the sums which he expended; and this curious document is here printed for the first time. The stores were provided with no niggard hand. They consisted, among other matters, of 31 hogsheads and

1 pipe of wine, 10 barrels of beer, 15 carcasses of oxen (salted, of course), 72 hams, 400 dried fish; 200 stockfish, 1 barrel of sturgeon, 5 dozen of lampreys, 50 pounds of "whale," along with the very necessary accompaniments of 22 gallons of mustard, with salt, pepper, vinegar, and onions in proportion. A stock of little luxuries, suited to the more delicate palate and stomach of the baby princess, was not forgotten; such as 500 walnuts, 2 loaves of sugar, grits and oatmeal, with a corresponding allowance of ginger, citron, and mace; 2 frails of figs, the same quantity of raisins, and 28 pounds of gingerbread. The ship was painted, and banners and pencils bearing the English arms were supplied. The crew consisted of forty hands. Six weeks were occupied in making the necessary preparations; and the bill which Matthew de Columbariis tendered to the Exchequer amounted to £265, 5s. 9d. The vessel sailed from Yarmouth, reached Bergen in safety, and in due time it was known that the arrival of the Maiden of Norway might daily be expected in Scotland. But the child, on whose frail life were centred so many hopes, was not permitted to see them realized. It would appear that she died just before reaching the Orkney Islands (possibly in a bay in South Ronaldsha), leaving her hereditary kingdom, in which her personal claims were scarcely recognised, to all the dangers and miseries of a disputed succession.

THE INTERREGNUM.

§ 16. The death of Queen Margaret left the administration of the affairs of Scotland in the hands of that body by whom the government of the realm had been carried on since the decease of the late King Alexander. Its official designation was "The Guardians of the Kingdom of Scotland, appointed by the common advice." The documents here printed, as illustrative of the period of our national annals which intervenes between the death of Queen Margaret and the accession of John Balliol, naturally range themselves under two heads; those namely which, emanating from the governing body, have reference to the internal affairs of the realm; and, in the second place, such others as originated from a source, whatever it might be, external to that body. Under the former category we have a series of writs and receipts which make us acquainted with the military condition of Scotland, in regard more especially to its castles and fortresses, as it existed before the struggle with its southern neighbour and antagonist. Writs were addressed from time to time by the Guardians of Scotland to the Chamberlain, directing him to pay to the keepers of certain royal castles the wages due to them; and many of these mandates, together with the corresponding receipts for such payments, are still extant. In the southern division of the realm we have the castles of Edinburgh,<sup>1</sup> Berwick,<sup>2</sup> Roxburgh,<sup>3</sup> and Jedburgh;<sup>4</sup> while Kirkcudbright,<sup>5</sup> Wigton,<sup>6</sup> and Dumfries,<sup>7</sup> Dumbarton,<sup>8</sup> and Ayr,<sup>9</sup> guarded the west. and Forres.<sup>1</sup> While all these strongholds were held by the King, there were scattered up and down the land very many others, the property of the more powerful nobility. Of these it may be enough to specify Caerlaverock, Turnberry, and Dirlerton. If to these be added the innumerable fortified dwelling-houses, rendered necessary by the lawlessness of the times, we shall have a tolerably accurate estimate of the condition of the realm when it entered upon its struggle with Edward.

§ 17. I have no intention of here discussing the rival claims of Bruce and Balliol, and none of the records here printed bear directly upon that question. As regards the two claimants themselves, nothing occurs to show that either the one or the other tried in any way to influence the decision of the King, with whom rested the final adjudication of the vacant throne. It is worthy of remark, however, that while the great question was yet undecided, Robert Bruce, Lord of Annandale, in conjunction with his son the Earl of Carrick, the Bishop of Glasgow, Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester, Donald Earl of Mar, and James Steward of Scotland, entered into a bond with Florence Count of Holland, the true meaning of which is not that which lies on the surface. Bruce well knew that the claim of the Count to the Scottish crown was utterly futile, and that it would be absurd to come to an arrangement with him as to the future division of the kingdom; but he was fully alive to the importance of securing the co-operation of those other powerful individuals who by entering into this bond thereby pledged themselves to support his interests.<sup>1</sup> Among the documents which find a place in this division may be noted a series of writs and receipts, which have reference to the payment of several of the officers employed in the administration of public affairs in Scotland;<sup>2</sup> of these, some were appointed by the Guardians, others directly by King Edward himself. The price of provisions is illustrated by the lists of stores provided for certain castles;<sup>3</sup> and the scanty materials for the history of commerce in Scotland at this early period receive important accessions from the letters of safe-conduct granted by Edward to certain merchants of Berwick, Perth, and elsewhere.<sup>4</sup>

§ 18. Upon the accession of John Balliol to the Scottish throne Edward withdrew from all direct interference in the affairs of that kingdom, which were now conducted according to its own constitutional forms and precedents. As a necessary consequence, few papers connected with the history of Scotland during this period found their way into the English archives, and such as are there preserved have reference chiefly to the feudal claims advanced by Edward over Balliol and his realm.<sup>1</sup> Some curious information incidentally shows itself in the midst of the pleas of the Crown for the county of Northumberland, where among the justices-itinerant we recognise the names of Hugh de Cressingham and William de Ormesby.<sup>2</sup> A series of valuable surveys of the property lately belonging to Duncan the son of Colban, Earl of Fife, recently deceased, are worthy of especial notice,<sup>3</sup> from the light which they throw upon the topographical and social condition of that district at the time specified. Balliol's relations with Flanders, as far as he himself was concerned, were of a purely financial character;<sup>4</sup> although, before the end of his reign, they acquired a certain political significance through the intervention of Philip King of France.<sup>5</sup> Of much greater importance is a valuable paper furnished by the Imperial Archives of Paris, which makes us acquainted with the existence of a treaty of alliance between the Kings of France and Norway against England, to which the King of Scotland entered as a contracting party.<sup>6</sup> The position of Robert Bruce the elder, and of his son the Earl of Carrick, at this time, is exhibited by certain favours granted to them by King Edward.<sup>7</sup> Interspersed with these, we find many curious papers of a miscellaneous nature, among which we may specify those which bear upon the history of the trade and commerce of Scotland.<sup>1</sup>

§ 19. It may be convenient to trace from this point the subsequent history of the deposed King of Scotland, as far as it is exhibited in the papers here printed. Balliol's earliest place of abode during his captivity in England was at Hertford, where we find him resident from 20th November 1296 to 6th August in the following year.<sup>2</sup> Here he had little to complain of in any respect, with the one exception of the loss of his liberty. The allowance which was made to him (seventeen shillings a day) was ample; and he was provided with a suitable retinue.<sup>3</sup> He seems to have found his chief amusement in hunting.<sup>4</sup> But early in August 1297 he was transferred from Hertford to the safer custody of the Tower of London, and was placed under the care of its Constable, Ralph de Sandwich. Here he remained until the end of May 1299. On the twelfth of that month King Edward, being at Canterbury, summoned Balliol thither;<sup>5</sup> the citation was obeyed, and the responsibilities of the Constable ended on July 18.<sup>6</sup> His establishment during this period was as follows:—two esquires, one huntsman with his page, a barber, a chaplain, a steward, a butler, two chamberlains, a clerk of the chapel, a washerwoman, and three lads. The number of the horses in his stable does not appear ; but he had at least two greyhounds and ten hounds. At this date above mentioned, Edward being desirous of concluding a treaty of peace with the King of France, which was to be cemented by marrying his sister, in order to promote that object transferred Balliol into the custody of Raynaldus, Bishop of Vicenza, the delegate despatched by the Pope for furthering peace between France and England.<sup>1</sup> Balliol pledged himself to submit to the arrangements made by the Pope respecting his place of residence. His wanderings began immediately afterwards, and were of long duration. From Wissant he was taken to Cambrai, where he appears to have resided along with the Bishop of Vicenza, in the episcopal palace, until the month of November.<sup>2</sup> In the middle of December (being at the time at Châtillon,<sup>3</sup> midway between Tonnerre and Langres), he recorded his promise of continued obedience to the Pope ; and the same bishop pronounced a judicial sentence to the effect that Balliol should reside for the future within a certain house or castle belonging to the Abbot of Cluni, from which he should not depart without special permission. How long he continued here is somewhat uncertain. Before the conclusion of 1302, however, that permission for his removal had been granted ; for in the November of that year we find that he had returned to his paternal estates in France, where he executed a deed by which he empowered Philip IV. to arrange for him his affairs with Edward of England.<sup>1</sup> Here the exiled King of Scotland appears to have resided until his death, which did not occur until several years afterwards; for a document printed by Rymer<sup>2</sup> informs us that he survived until the early part of A.D. 1315.<sup>3</sup>

§ 20. One of the first acts of Edward, after having received from Balliol his abjuration of the sovereignty of Scotland, was to take such measures as would effectually separate that kingdom from France. For this purpose he caused to be transmitted to Philip a notarial instrument embodying the several acts of submission which had been made to him, as Lord Paramount of Scotland, by such of the nobility, corporations, lay and ecclesiastical, bishops, clergy, and others as had acknowledged his feudal superiority, and had renounced all treaties of alliance with France.<sup>4</sup> The measures which he took for the

<sup>3</sup> In the additions by Guizot to the Historical Dictionary of Moreri (vol. ii. p. 43, ed. fol. Paris, 1759), it is stated that John Balliol and his wife were buried in the middle of the choir of the parish church of S. Vite de Balliol sur Eaux, in the diocese of Reims, and that when the note on the tomb was nearly obliterated, two words only being legible, namely . . . "Samedi . . . Avril."

In all probability, however, the assumption that this monument is the tomb of the deposed King of Scotland is an error. The estates of the family of Balliol were not in Normandy, but in Picardy, near Abbeville, in the modern department of the Somme.

internal organization of Scotland,—conceding for the moment that this was a matter in which he had any right to interfere,—are marked by a distinctness and broadness of plan, and by a promptitude of execution which impress us with a high sense of his political wisdom. Aiming as he did at the union of the two realms, he sought to assimilate their laws and legal proceedings. For this purpose he provided the English officers whom he placed in Scotland with forms of writs to be used by them as occasion served,<sup>1</sup> and with instructions how to proceed in certain specified cases.<sup>2</sup> He took measures in London for the establishment of Courts of Chancery<sup>3</sup> and Exchequer<sup>4</sup> at Berwick, with the view of introducing the English system of legal and financial administration into his newly acquired territory. He summoned merchants from at least twenty of the principal towns, inland and seaport, of England to meet at Berwick in order to discuss how the lucrative trade and commerce of that town might best be conducted for the future,<sup>5</sup> without, however, offending the prejudices of the burgesses in favour of their ancient local usages.<sup>6</sup> In like manner he took the management of the customs into his own hands;<sup>7</sup>

It is clear that Edward was bent upon converting Berwick forthwith into an English town (see pp. 123, 152, 165), meaning to extend this system throughout Scotland as opportunities for doing so offered themselves.

and by a succession of proceedings, some of which were judicious, some ill-advised, some on the side of justice, while others were acts of pure tyranny, he gave it to be understood that as he had dealt with Wales so would he deal with Scotland.

§ 21. Scotland, however, was not yet overcome, nor was she to be conquered by legislation. She entered upon an unequal struggle with England, so unequal that from the outset there is no difficulty in predicting the result. The second volume of this work is the record of a succession of attacks made by the Scotch upon the invaders, attacks which were calculated rather to irritate the English than to expel them. However brave and devoted may have been the individuals who took part in these forays, no perceptible benefit resulted from them. They were without system, they were deficient in unity of purpose; even when successful for a time they were not followed up; there was no organized system of either attack or defence. Indeed, under the circumstances of the case, it scarcely could have been otherwise. The truth is, and it must be confessed with shame and sorrow, that the Scottish nobility as a body were not true to Scotland. The source of this lamentable weakness is to be traced to the operation of the Feudal System. With few exceptions these nobles held lands in England; and their ardour was cooled and their efforts paralysed by the knowledge that their possessions in that kingdom would be forfeited to the Crown on the first moment that they exhibited any active sympathy with their countrymen in arms against Edward.

§ 23. It is impossible within the limits of a preface to analyse these various documents, or to point out the influence which they must exercise upon our estimate of the political history of the period to which they relate. They help us to understand more clearly than hitherto the motives of some of the chief actors employed in these transactions, as well as the true character of many of the incidents themselves. By their aid, light is thrown upon questions connected with the legal and constitutional history of the northern portion of our island, while as yet it was a distinct and independent State; and many interesting facts which bear upon its early topography and genealogy may hence be gleaned. Looking at the collection as a whole, when we consider the remote period to which these documents relate, the varied nature of their contents, and the widely separated sources from which they are derived, it may perhaps be permitted to me to express my hope that these volumes will be found to have a claim upon the kindly notice of all persons interested in the history of Scotland.

<sup>2</sup> From three copies, mss. Addit. 15,644, fol. 35, b, Lansd. 229 fol. 111, and 259, fol. 67, all in the British Museum. The text of the first ms. is here adopted. The Lansdowne mss. exhibit a rough sketch of the charter, with its seals, as they existed when that copy was made. Fourteen labels are represented, with trickings of four seals, which are thus described:—

A. "Sigillum Walteri Senescalli, comitis de Meneth'."

B. "Sigillum Jacobi Senescalli Scotiae."

C. "Sigillum Roberti de Bruse, comitis de Carryk'."

D. "Robertus de Brus, dominus

Vallis Anandiae."

A note further states that: "These other seals were broken off, and some of them remaining had no arms." Then follows the notice of the source whence the copy was obtained: "Haec carta est in custodia Augustini Styward de Lakyngheth, in com. Suffolk, generosi, 1575."

A third copy, apparently transcribed from the above ms. by an ignorant hand, is in ms. Lansd. 259, fol. 67.

This document was known to Dugdale, and is quoted by him in his Baronage, i. 216, apparently from one of the manuscripts noticed above.

1287. March 21.—Pope Honorius the Fourth gives directions respecting the security of the Dower of Margaret late Princess of Scotland.<sup>2</sup>

A.D. 1287.
March 21.

The Bishop of Durham and the Provincial of the Dominicans in England shall enforce the payment of the dower of the princess Margaret, widow of prince Alexander of Scotland.

Honorius episcopus, servus servorum Dei, venerabili fratri . . . episcopo Dunelmensi, ac dilecto filio . . . priori provinciali fratrum ordinis Prædicatorum Angliæ, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem.

Petitio dilectæ in Christo filiz, nobilis mulieris Margarete, relictæ quondam Alexandri primogeniti clare memoriæ . . . regis Scotiæ, nobis exhibita continebat quod idem rex olim (tempore videlicet quod (sic) ipsa et dictus primogenitus, vir suus, matrimonium ad invicem contraxerunt), voluit et concessit quod si dicta Margareta, ipso matrimonio consummato, superviveret dicto primogenito, toto tempore vitæ ipsius Margarete, in quocumque statu esset, annuatim prima die Augusti post obitum

A.D. 1287.
March 21.

Dedit insuper eidem primogenito potestatem de prædictis omnibus eam dotandi, seu sibi eadem in donationem propter nuptias concedendi; quod idem primogenitus juxta potestatem sibi traditam adimplevit. Dictus quoque rex supplicavit etiam hoc per Romanum pontificem confirmari, prout in patentibus litteris inde confectis, dictarum regis et primogeniti sigillis signatis,<sup>1</sup> plenius dicitur contineri.

Cum autem dictus primogenitus, præfata Margareta superstite, in fata concesserit post dictum inter ipsum et dictam Margaretam matrimonium consummatum, eadem Margareta humiliter supplicavit præmissum dotalitium, seu donationem propter nuptias, confirmatione sedis Apostolicæ communiri.

Nos itaque ipsius Margaretae et dicti regis supplicationibus inclinati, dotalitium sive donationem, eadem sicut provide facta sunt, rata habentes et grata, ipsa auctoritate Apostolica duximus confirmanda.

Quocirca discretioni vestrae per Apostolica scripta mandamus quatenus vos, vel alter vestrum, non permitatis prædictam Margaretam super hiis contra hujusmodi confirmationis nostræ tenorem ab aliquibus indebite molestari; molestatores hujusmodi per censuram ecclesiasticam, appellatione postposita, compescendo. Non obstante si aliquibus a sede Apostolica sit indultum quod excommunicari, suspendi, vel interdicti non possint per Attentius provisuri de hiis quæ causæ cognitionem exigunt, et quæ confirmationem hujusmodi non contingunt, vos intromittere nullatenus attemptetis. Rex dilectis et fidelibus suis, Thomæ de Normanville et Guycharde de Charrun, salutem.

Accedens nuper ad nos R. de Wytton, nuncius venerabilis patris W. episcopi Sancti Andree, et aliorum coexecutorum suorum testamenti claræ memoriæ A. quondam regis Scotiæ, ex parte ipsorum executorum nobis conquerendo monstravit quod, licet inter dictum episcopum et Johannem le Massun, mercatorem nostrum Vasconia, coram viris fidedignis de regno nostro et Scotia fuerit, prout idem nuncius asseruit, computatum super quodam debito, in quo rex prædictus dum vixit tenebatur, et adhuc mercatori tenetur eidem, et ejusdem debiti arreragia, una cum dampnis quæ sustinuit et expensis quas fecit occasione solutionis retardatæ, 'per' præfatum episcopum eidem mercatori oblata fuissent, mercator tamen ipse oblationem seu satisfactionem hujusmodi recusans, homines Scotiæ de mandato nostro pro præmissis in regno distringi, pignoraque capi et namia procurat, ut dicitur, incessanter.

Verum quia utrisque partibus super præmissis fieri volumus justitiæ complementum, assignamus vos ad audiendum compotum et rationes tam prædictorum executorum quam dicti mercatoris super hiis quæ contingunt debitum supradictum.

Et ideo vobis mandamus quod ad certum diem, quem ad hoc provideritis, convenitis in aliquo tuto loco in confinio prædictorum regnorum, de quibus die et loco prædictos executores et mercatorem præmuniri facietis, et compotum prædictum inter partes ipsas et hinc inde rationes suas, si coram vobis venerint, audiat; et omnia ea quæ inveneritis esse clara ad finem debitum perducatis; ac de aliis quæ clara non fuerint, diligentem inquisitionem faciat; et de facto vestro nos, vel consilium nostrum, sub sigillis vestris distincte et aperte citra Pascha proximo futurum certioretis. Quibus partibus scire faciatis quod tunc sint coram concilio nostro, facturæ et recepturæ quod justitia suadebit.

Dominus rex mandavit dilectis et fidelibus suis Thomæ de Normanville et Gwyscardo de Charrun breve suum in hæc verba :— A.D. 1289.

debito in quo rex prædictus dum vixerat tenebatur et adhuc mercatori tenetur eidem, et ejusdem debiti arreragia, una cum dampnis quæ sustinuit et expensis quas fecit occasione solutionis retardatæ per præfatum episcopum eidem mercatori oblata fuissent, mercator tamen ipse oblationem seu satisfactionem hujusmodi recusans recipere, homines Scotiæ de mandato nostro pro præmissis in regno nostro distringi, pignoraque capi et namia procurat, ut dicitur, incessanter.

Verum quia utrisque partibus super præmissis fieri volumus justitiæ complementum, assignavimus vos ad audiendum compotum et rationes tam prædictorum executorum quam prædicti mercatoris super hiis quæ contingunt compotum supradictum.

Et ideo vobis mandamus quod ad certum diem, quem ad hoc provideritis, conveniatis in aliquo tuto loco in confinio prædictorum regnorum, de quibus die et loco prædictos executores et mercatorem præmuniri facietis, et compotum prædictum inter partes ipsas, et hinc inde rationes suas, si coram vobis venerint, audiat, et omnia ea quæ inveneritis esse clara ad finem debitum perducatis; ac de aliis quæ clara non fuerint diligentem inquisitionem faciat: ac de facto vestro nos vel consilium nostrum sub sigillis vestris distincte et aperte citra Pascha proxime futurum certioretis. Mandavimus enim vicecomiti nostro Northumbriæ quod ad certos diem et locum, quos ei scire faciat, venire faciat coram vobis tot et tales tam mercatores quam alios probos et legales homines de balliva sua per quos rei veritas in præmissis melius sciri poterit et inquiri; cui quidem vicecomiti et Westmorlandiæ, Cumbriæ et Eboraci vicecomitibus per breve nostrum præcipimus quod de bonis et mercimoniis quorumcumque pro dicto debito in ballivis suis per ipsos arrestatis, et denariis inde dicto mercatori liberatis, vos dictis die et loco reddant certiores; et quod a distractionibus ea occasione faciendis interim cessent omnino, et

A.D. 1289.
Feb. 3.

Postea assignatus fuit dies per prædictos Thomam et Gwyhardum præfato episcopo Sancti Andreae et aliis coexecutoribus dicti regis, et præfato Johanni de Massun, apud Karham, in confinio prædictorum regnorum, in crastino Purificationis Beatæ Mariæ anno regni regis E. xvij. Ad quem diem venerunt prædicti Thomas, Gwy- chardus et Walterus de Cambhou, eis per breve domini regis associatus. Et prædictus Johannes le Massun venit, et prædictus episcopus et alii coexecutores sui non vene- runt; sed quidam Ricardus, Johannes, Willelmus de Kelkou, viri religiosi, Henricus prior de Coldingham, Simon Fraser, Johannes de Lyndesey et Ricardus Fraser, milites, magistri Willelmus de Domfrys, Alanus de Domfrys, et Johannes de Keth, clerici de rotulis regis, attornati prædicti episcopi Sancti Andreae et aliorum coexecutorum ipsius regis per litteras patentes sigillo regiminis regni Scotiæ assignatos,<sup>1</sup> et ex parte custodum illius regni, ad prædictum compotum audiendum, finiendum et terminan- dum, similiter venerunt et optulerunt se versus prædictum Johannem le Massun.

Feb. 3, 1289.

Et prædictus Johannes dicit quod paratus est compu- tare cum ipsis; et dicit quod prædictus rex Scotiæ tene- batur ei ex una parte in ix<sup>xx</sup>xiiij l. pro lij doleis vini et xxiiij celdris et dimidio, xj bollis frumenti, captis ad opus ipsius regis per manus Thomæ Dame et Roberti dicti Militis, ballivorum villæ Sancti Johannis, per tallia et lit- teras inter ipsos confectas. Dicit etiam quod prædictus rex tenebatur ei pro D. doleis vini in viij<sup>xx</sup>xij l. per diversas litteras. Præterea dicit quod idem rex cepit de eo celxvj dolea vini, quæ sub sarura (sic) sua propria fecit custodiri, ita quod ipse nunquam ad ea manum potuit apponere; præterea vinorum, Dlvij l. Dicit etiam quod idem rex

cepit de ipso quandam navem, quatuor lastas et viij dactras coreorum, prætium cxi l. Summa prædicti debiti, una cum vinis et aliis bonis ab eo captis, M<sup>i</sup>M<sup>i</sup>xxxix l. viij s. præter dampna et expensas quæ sustinuit occasione prædictæ intentionis.<sup>1</sup>

Et prædicti attornati prædictorum executorum dicunt quod non tenentur eidem Johanni in aliquo respondere, propter feloniam quam commisit in regno Scotiæ, super qua convictus fuit, quod ipse cum galia sua vi et armis applicuit ad Portum Reginæ, et ibi captus esset ut traditor et malefactor contra pacem domini regis, et ibi per iudicium suspenderetur. Et postea rex de sua gratia speciali mortem ei pardonavit, et hoc ad instantiam domini regis Angliæ. Sed ob reverentiam domini regis Angliæ et illorum qui ibidem ex parte sua venerunt, ad pacis regnorum confederationem, et ad breve quod ipsimet perquisierunt, respondent et dicunt quod dominus rex Scotiæ recepit per manus ballivorum suorum de eodem Johanne ccclxv dolea vini, prætium cujuslibet dolei xl s. tantum. De quibus idem Johannes recepit cccliiij l. xvij s. iiij d. per bonas litteras acquietantiæ sub nomine ipsius Johannis confectas; quas quidem litteras idem Johannes contradicere non potuit. Dicunt etiam quod attornati ipsius Johannis tunc in Scotia receperunt de eodem rege cclxxiiij l. ad opus ipsius Johannis per diversas litteras, quas attornati eorundem executorum protulerunt.

Et prædictus Johannes dicit quod ipse nunquam attornavit aliquem ad pecuniam ipsam recipiendam.

Et attornati prædictorum executorum dicunt quod ipsi parati sunt verificare secundum legem regni Scotiæ et consuetudinem Marchiæ quod attornati fuerint ad vendendum, emendum, et bona sua recipiendum per totum regnum Scotiæ; et quod prædictos denarios receperunt per præceptum suum.

Et quoad residuum vinorum, et xxiiij celdras et dimidium, xj bollas frumenti, respondent et dicunt quod bona illa attachiata et arrestata fuerunt per ballivos domini regis Scotiæ ad sectam diversorum mercatorum pro diversis debitis in quibus idem Johannes eisdem mercatoribus et aliis fidelibus illius regni tenebatur, quousque responsurus veniret eisdem mercatoribus et aliis hominibus tam regni Angliæ quam Scotiæ. Qui quidem Johannes post attachiamentum illud factum venire non curavit præfatis mercatoribus de prædictis debitis respondere, et in curia ejusdem regni juri stare. Ita quod propter contumaciam suam, dampnum quod inde recepit fuit per judicium et secundum legem et consuetudinem regni Scotiæ, et non per ipsum regem.

A.D. 1239.
Feb. 3.

Et quantum ad navem cum coreis et aliis bonis in eadem inventis, dicunt quod idem Johannes venit cum quadam galia sua vi et armis, et applicuit ad portum prædictum, et homines prædicti regis interfecisse voluit; ita quod homines ipsius regis se defendebant; et magnis assultibus inter ipsos habitis, ipsum et homines suos armatos tandem fugiendo ceperunt tamquam malefactores et pacis regis ipsius perturbatores, et super hoc per inquisitionem convicti fuerunt. Ita quod quidam illorum, qui secum inventi fuerunt in prædicta galia, suspensi fuerunt; et dominus rex de sua gratia, ad instantiam domini regis Angliæ, vitam ei concessit; et dicunt quod tunc navem cum bonis in eadem, et omnibus aliis bonis in regno illo inventis, per judicium amisit; per quod eidem respondere non tenentur.

Et prædictus Johannes dicit quantum ad ccclxv dolea vini, quæ iidem recognoverunt ad opus ipsius regis fore recepta, vendidit quodlibet doleum pro xliiij s., et petit quod eidem satisfaciant de pecunia quæ a retro est de prædictis ccclxv doleis; et si venditionem illorum vinorum dedicere velint, sicut prius petit quod inquiratur. Et quoad cclxvj dolea, quæ prædicti executores dicunt fuisse arrestata ad sectam mercatorum, et postea per judicium conquerentibus pro debitis suis liberari, dicit quod ita non fuit; sed quod vina illa ad opus ipsius regis seisata fuerunt et ad commodum suum devenerunt; et quod ita sit petit ut inquiratur. Et quantum ad navem cum coreis et aliis bonis, dicit quod homines Scotiæ fecerunt ei quam-

of the March.

Et prædicti attornati quæsi si in inquisitionem de comitatu Northumbriæ super articulis prædictis se ponere velint præcise, dicunt quod non, nisi super homines de Marchia, prout temporibus retroactis consueti fuerunt.

Et quia dominus rex mandavit per breve suum quod per probos et legales homines de comitatu Northumbriæ, per quos rei veritas inter prædictum Johannem et prædictos executores inquireretur super articulis inter ipsos motis, provisum est quod super hoc procedatur ad inquirendum utrum prædictus Johannes vendidit prædicta ccclxv dolea præfato regi, videlicet, quodlibet doleum pro xl s. tantum, vel pro xliij s. Et si attornati ejus assignati fuerunt et recipere potuerunt secundum legem mercatoriam denarios ipsius Johannis a debitoribus suis de bonis et catallis eisdem debitoribus per ipsum Johannem venditis. Et si prædicta cclxvj dolea vini, quæ idem Johannes asserit fuisse sub sarura (sic) domini regis, devenerunt ad commodum ipsius regis; vel prædictus Johannes disposuit pro voluntate sua; vel si ballivi regis Scotiæ ea bona propter contumaciam ipsius Johannis irreplegiata diversis creditoribus ipsius Johannis Scotiæ et Angliæ de ipso conquerentibus secundum legem et consuetudinem illius regni liberaverunt.

jury.

Juratores dicunt per sacramentum suum quod ballivi prædicti regis ad opus ipsius regis emerunt de prædicto Johanne prædicta ccclxv dolea vini, quodlibet doleum pro xliij s. et non pro xl s. tantum, et quod vina fuerunt bona, prout conventum fuit inter dominum Johannem et ballivos dicti regis, et ad horam debitam eisdem ballivis liberata. Dicunt etiam quod attornati prædicti Johannis non debent recipere pecuniam aliquam de debitoribus suis pro bonis per eundem Johannem eisdem venditis, nisi habeant inde litteras suas patentes, vel aliquid aliud speciale warrantum.

Dicunt etiam quod prædicta cclxvj. dolea vini arrestata fuerunt et attachiata ad sectam diversorum mercatorum Angliæ et Scotiæ, et quod quædam pars vinorum illorum per contumaciam ipsius Johannis secundum legem Scotiæ liberata fuerit creditoribus suis. Et idem Johannes de quadam parte illius vini, (videlicet, de iiij doleis), fecit voluntatem suam. Et quædam pars vinorum illorum remansit in custodia, tamquam bona forisfacta propter feloniam quam commisit in eodem regno; sed quantum illorum vinorum remansit in custodia regis, et quantum liberatum fuit mercatoribus prædictis, ignorant. Et quia attornati executorum prædicti regis veredictum ipsius inquisitionis audire noluerunt, nec in ea se ponere voluerunt, sed de curia ista recesserunt, et similiter pro aliis articulis hinc inde propositis, datus est dies dicto Johanni coram domino rege et ejus consilio a die Paschæ in unum mensem. Et dictum est attornatis prædictorum executorum quod de residuo solutionis prædictorum cclxv doleorum vini sic recognitorum, præfato mercatori satisfaciant; et quod sint coram domino rege et ejus consilio ad dictum terminum, si sibi viderint expedire.

Nicolaus episcopus, servus servorum Dei, dilecto filio nobili viro Eduardo nato carissimi in Christo filii Eduardi regis Angliæ illustris, salutem et apostolicam benedictionem.

[A.D. 1289.
Nov. 16.]

Petitio tua nobis exhibita continebat quod propter contiguitatem Angliæ Scotiæque regnorum diversa scandala, rancores et odia inter ipsa regna et eorum reges hactenus sunt exhorta (sic), ex quibus nonnulla rerum et corporum contigisse pericula dinoscuntur.

The pope sanctions the marriage of the prince of England with the queen of Scotland.

de matrimonio cum Margareta herede Norwagiæ contrahendo." The third copy, slightly injured by rats, bears no endorsement. The text is identical in all these instruments. To each is appended a leaden bull by a cord of yellow and crimson silk. Besides these, another copy of this Bull occurs in Liber A. fol. 151, b, under the following title:—"Transumptum bullæ Nicolai papæ quarti, sub sigillo Oliveri episcopi Lincolnæ, de dispensatione quod matrimonium fieri possit inter filium regis Angliæ et domicillam Norwagiæ, heredem Scotiæ."

[A.D. 1289.
Nov. 16.]

Sicque cum claræ memoriæ . . . rex Scotiæ sit viam universæ carnis ingressus, proprio masculino genere non extante, et dilecta in Christo filia Margareta, nata carissimi filii nostri Erii Norwegiæ regis illustris, neptis prædicti regis Scotiæ, in præfato Scotiæ regno ipsi regi Scotiæ succedat, verisimiliter dubitatur quod si forsan regnum ipsum ad manus alterius ex ipsius Margarete contrahendo conjugio proveniret, de facili possent hujusmodi scandala, rancores et odia pullulare ac provenire ex ipsis pericula graviora.

Unde ad hujusmodi periculis obviandum, ac ad sedandum et obliviscendum scandala, rancores et odia supradicta, et ad procreandum ac nutriendum veræ pacis et dilectionis commoda inter prædicta regna et incolas eorum, desideras cum prædicta Margareta matrimonialiter copulari; sed quia tertio consanguinitatis gradu (quo tu et eadem Margareta, nata ex quondam Margareta consobrina tua, præfati Norwegiæ regis uxore, vobis attinetis adinvicem), prohibente, id non potest perducì legitime ad effectum, apostolicæ sedis licentiam super hoc humiliter implorasti.

Nos itaque in prædictis regnis et ubique locorum Deo et Romanæ ecclesiæ devotorum pacem et concordiam affectantes, et intendentes ad id studia quæ possimus adhibere; sperantes quoque quod ex hujusmodi matrimonio (si fiet) memoratis regnis, odiorum tenebris inde propulsis, prosperitatem quamplurimum (dante Domino) incrementa provenirent: considerantes etiam quod si prædictum regem patrem tuum, juxta sui voti præsagia, contingat in Terræ Sanctæ subsidium proficisci, posset ipsi regi, suoque regno et tibi (et per consequens præfata Terræ Sanctæ negotio) si alii prædicta Margareta nuberet, deperire; pensantes insuper, quod nulli ex hujusmodi tuo et ejusdem Margarete contrahendo matrimonio provenire debere scandala verisimiliter formidantur.

Hiis et aliis dignis considerationibus subsistentibus excitati, tuis supplicationibus annuentes, tecum et cum Margareta præfata, ut (impedimento consanguinitatis hujusmodi non obstante) matrimonium invicem legitime contrahere ac in contractu licite remanere possitis auctoritate apostolica de speciali gratia dispensamus; prolem suscipiendam ex te ac dicta Margareta ex hujusmodi matrimonio nunciantes ex nunc legitimam de apostolicæ plenitudine potestatis.

Nulli ergo omnino hominum liceat hanc paginam nostræ dispensationis infringere, vel ei ausu temerario contraire. Si quis autem hoc attemptare præsumpserit, indignationem Omnipotentis Dei et beatorum Petri et Pauli apostolorum Ejus se noverit incursurum. Propter quod idem dominus rex Angliæ præfatis episcopis, comitibus, baronibus, proceribus, magnatibus, et cæteris de consilio præfati Alexandri regis Scotiæ tunc existentibus, in fide qua ei tenentur et sacramento fidelitatis sibi præstito, injunxit quod super hoc diligentem haberent inter eos tractatum, et ei veritatem inde scire facerent.

Qui omnes in præsentia ipsius domini regis Angliæ constituti, dixerunt super sacramentum suum quod omnia prædicta tenementa, exceptis terris et tenementis de Minnemorthe, assignata fuerunt præfato regi Norwegiæ et Margaretæ uxori suæ, ita quod inde perciperent redditus annuatim provenientes pro prædictis septingentis marcis per annum, in forma prædicta. Set bene dicunt quod prædictus rex Norwegiæ fuit in seisinâ per concessionem et assignationem prædictas percipiendi prædictum redditum de dictis terris et tenementis, præter terras et tenementa de Minnemorthe, pro dictis septingentis marcis annuis, quousque prædicti custodes, jam tribus annis elapsis, prædictum redditum ei detinuerunt, et adhuc detinent.

wagiæ fuit inde in seisinâ quousque jam tribus annis elapsis quod prædicti custodes prædictum redditum eidem regi Norwegiæ detinuerunt, et adhuc detinent. Et etiam quia prædictus rex Norwegiæ nichil in prædictis septingentis marcis annuis clamare potest nisi ad terminum vitæ suæ tantum;—per dominum regem Angliæ et superiorem dominum regni Scotiæ, et consilium suum utriusque regni, consideratum est quod idem rex Norwegiæ recuperet seisinam suam de prædicto redditu proveniente de prædictis terris et tenementis ad valorem eorundem terrarum et tenementorum, præter terras et tenementa de Minnemorthe, pro prædictis septingentis marcis per annum, percipiendis tota vita sua in forma prædicta; et etiam arreragia prædicti redditus de tribus annis præteritis; videlicet, valorem redditus annuatim provenientis de terris et tenementis prædictis, præter terras et tenementa de Minnemorthe.

Ita tamen quod terræ et tenementa prædicta, præter terras et tenementa de Minnemorthe, per ipsum regem Norwegiæ et suos tradantur aliquibus probis hominibus regni Scotiæ, quos ad hoc eligerit, et non aliis, tenenda; et ad respondendum annuatim de valore eorundem terrarum et tenementorum ipsi regi Norwegiæ ad totam vitam suam in forma prædicta.

Et quoad terras et tenementa de Minnemorthe, eo quod per prædictum veredictum non sit compertum quod terræ et tenementa illa assignata fuerunt ad perficiendum id quod deficeret de prædictis septingentis marcis annuis, percipiendis de aliis terris et tenementis supranominatis, si redditus earundem terrarum et tenementorum supradictorum ad id plene non sufficeret; nec idem dominus rex Norwegiæ aliquid inde ostendit per scriptum, aut alio modo sufficienti, nec etiam idem rex Norwegiæ inde fuit in seisinâ in forma prædicta qua petiit; ideo, quoad supplicationem istam de terris et tenementis in Minnemorthe, nichil capiat ad præsens: salva eidem regi Nor-

DE BALLIVA DE LYTH' ET ESKEDALE.

Isabella de Dalruskan appellavit in comitatu Willelmum Wakeman de morte Roberti Molendinarii, viri sui. Et ipse modo non venit nec sequitur assisum suum. Ideo ipse capiatur et plegii sui de præsentis in misericordia, viz., Johannes le Provost de Cargou et Adam Dodding de eadem. Et prædictus Willelmus modo venit et bene defendit mortem, etc. Et dicit quod prædictus Robertus interfectus fuit in regno Scotiæ, 'in ultima guerra Scotiæ,' et petit si debeat hic inde respondere, etc.

Et super hoc vocata comunitate totius comitatus, quæsitum fuit ab eis quid in casu consimili fieri consuevit, et si dominus rex sectam habeat de felonis factis in regno Scotiæ; dicunt quod antiquitus utebatur consuetudine tali in hac patria, quod si quis aliquam feloniam fecisset in regno Scotiæ, et venisset in Angliam, deberet venire ad primam ecclesiam in Anglia inventam, et ibi factum suum recognoscere, et postea ad castrum Karlioli accedere et iterato factum suum recognoscere, et arma sua reddere; et ita possit secure in Anglia morari.

Et si contingebat quod aliquis talis captus fuisset ad sectam alicujus antequam ad ecclesiam pervenisset et pacem petiisset, solebat capi et ad prisonam domini regis Angliæ deduci, et postea ad quemdam locum qui vocatur Sulwat, ad divisas regnorum, ducebatur ad petitionem querentium de eo, et ibi deberet appellari per querentem de felonia quam debuit fecisse, et [affirmaret] 'diceret' narrando quod talem feloniam sibi fecit ad dampnum ipsius querentis, assignando dampna alta pro voluntate sua, et tunc oporteret prædictum sic captum per corpus suum 'se' defendere, et nichilominus inveniret securitatem querenti de dampnis prædictis, et si victoriam habuisset, quietus recederet; et si convictus fuisset, satisfacerent querenti de duabus partibus dampnorum; et si nullam securitatem posset invenire, liberaretur querenti faciendo de ipso voluntatem suam. Et ista consuetudo usitata fuit usque tempus domini regis nunc, qui eam reprobavit circa annum nonum regni sui. Et dicunt quod nunquam viderunt neque audierunt quod aliqui reges Angliæ sectam aliam de aliquibus feloniis factis in regno Scotiæ habuerunt.

Et super hoc juratores de Lythe et Eskedale et 'juratores' de Cumberlande et Allerdale examinati si aliquid constet eis de felonia 'prædicta' [prædicti Willelmi Wakeman], dicunt quod prædictus 'Willelmus' Wakeman non est in aliquo culpabilis de prædicta morte, 'ut intelligunt,' nec in aliquo alio male credunt ipsum. Sed dicunt quod prædicta Isabella appellavit ipsum de morte prædicta per abbettum 'cujusdam' Roberti de Robbertestun de Scotia, qui obiit, et qui malitiose illud appellamentum 'fieri' procuravit. Ideo prædictus Willelmus inde quietus recedat.<sup>1</sup>

DE DOMINABUS quæ sunt in donatione domini regis, etc., dicunt quod Matilidis de Carrig, quæ manet in Scotia, est de donatione domini regis, eo quod tenet de domino rege in capite duodecimam partem barroniæ de Lemirtone, et est maritata cuidam Nicholao de Akenleg 'sine licentia domini regis,' qui manet in Scotia, 'et' qui nihil tenet de domino rege; et valent terræ prædictæ 'Matilidis' [dominæ] per annum xj m. Et juratores testantur quod prædicta Matilidis maritata fuit ad festum 'Nativitatis' sancti Johannis baptistæ anno 'regni' regis nunc xix.<sup>2</sup> Et Robertus de Wardewyke, subescaetor domini regis, recepit exitus prædictæ terræ de tribus terminis, viz., de termino sancti Michaelis anno xix, v m. et di., de termino Paschæ anno xx, v m. et di.; et de termino sancti Michaelis eodem anno v m. et di.; de quibus idem Robertus respondebit. Et præceptum est vicecomiti quod retineat prædictam terram in manu domini regis, et quod de cri-

tibus respondeat, etc., quousque prædicti Nicholaus et Matilldis satisfecerint domino regi pro transgressione prædicta.

A.D. 1292.
Nov. 3.

DE ECCLESIIS quæ sunt in donatione, etc., dicunt quod manerium de Soureby, quod fuit regis Scotiæ, et per mortem ejusdem regis est escaeta domini regis, est ecclesia de Soureby, quæ est de pertinentiis prædicti manerii, in donatione domini regis; et valet per annum c m., quam Ricardus de Wytton modo [tenet] 'habet' ex donatione regis Scotiæ. Et ecclesia de Carleton, quam Willelmus Framberd habet ex donatione ejusdem regis Scotiæ, eodem modo est in donatione domini regis.

DE ESCAETIS domini regis, etc., dicunt quod manerium de Penerethe, manerium de Soureby, manerium de Langwatby, manerium de Salkeld-Regis, et manerium de Carleton, . . . per mortem Alexandri quondam regis Scotiæ, qui desponsaverat Margaretam sororem domini regis nunc, quibus dominus H. rex, pater domini regis nunc, dederat prædicta maneria simul cum prædictis ecclesiis in matrimonio, [quæ] pro defectu hæredum devenerunt modo in manus domini regis; et valent per annum cccc m.<sup>1</sup>

Robertus de Windewode, Adam de Hotone, et duo alii quorum nomina ignorantur, venerunt ad forum Karlioli cum ij bobus et uno equo furatis, et pro suspicione latrocinii prædicti capti fuerunt et imprisonati in villa prædicta, ita quod prædictus Robertus de Windewode ascendebat usque ad lodium ejusdem prisonæ, et ibi exivit, et in descendendo usque ad terram statim captus fuit et decollatus, prout moris est in patria. Et prædictus Adam et alii ignoti ad proximam curiam coram majore et ballivis posuerunt se de bono et malo, et convicti per xij de villa prædicta suspensi fuerunt. Catalla prædictorum Adæ et aliorum ignotorum xl̄s. et ij̄d. unde vicecomes respondebit.

Quæsitum a juratis prædictis ubi prædictum latrocinium, pro quo suspensi fuerunt, factum fuit, dicunt quod in Scotia. Et quia hoc videbatur juri dissonum, vocatis majore et ballivis et communitate villæ prædictæ, quæsitum fuit ab eis si communiter usi fuerunt inquirere per juratos de civitate sua de feloniis forinsecis; et prisonos ibidem captos et detentos pro felonia forinseca in curia sua ita committere et judicare? Dicunt quod quotiens cōtigit aliquem arrestari in villa prædicta possessum de bobus, equis, bidentibus, vel alia re quam major et ballivi credunt esse furatam, coram eis inculpatur pro suspicionem habita furti. Et si posuerunt se de bono et malo, inquirent rei veritatem per xij de villa prædicta; et si per eos convincuntur de aliquo furto, vel de aliqua felonia, suspenduntur, et si eum acquietaverint, quietus recedit. Et sic facere usi sunt a tempore quo non extat memoria. Et Alanus de Penningtone, Gilbertus de Grimesdale, Radulfus de Heringtone, et Michael de Heringtone, majores post ultimum iter jurati ad inquirendum et respondendum de nominibus hominum sic deliberatorum in villa prædicta, adjuncti juratis de duodena villæ prædictæ, dicunt super sacramentum suum quod Gilbertus de Tingate captus fuit pro duabus vaccis furatis apud Dalstone, in libertate episcopi Karleolensis, ad sectam Emmæ filiæ Nicholai de Dalstone, et liberatus fuit Adæ de Ulvesby, senescallo prædicti episcopi, qui fecit eum suspendi simul cum vaccis prædictis, ad opus prædictæ Emmæ, eo quod suspensus erat ad sectam prædictæ Emmæ. Et jurati quæsiti quo tempore hoc accidit, dicunt quod tempore Radulphi episcopi, prædecessoris episcopi nunc. Catalla prædicti Gilberti de Tingate xlvijs., unde vicecomes respondebit. Et quia compertum est per recognitionem prædictorum majoris, ballivorum et communitatis prædicti comitatus, quod deliberaverunt prisonos captos pro

debet, per quos felones non possunt acquietari et immunes dampnari; et quia hoc est in præjudicium regiæ dignitatis, consideratum est quod libertas prædictæ villæ capiat in manu domini regis, etc., tenenda, etc.<sup>1</sup>

A.D. 1292.
Nov. 8.

De hiis qui distringunt extra potestatem, etc. Dicunt quod Robertus Blunville, coronator de Tyndale, et Johannes Scot, ballivus libertatis ejusdem, venerunt apud Aldestone tempore regis nunc post mortem Alexandri regis Scotiæ, jam uno anno elapso, et duxerunt secum homines de Tyndale per quos ceperunt quandam inquisitionem de combustione domus Willelmi de Veteri Ponte in libertate de Aldestone, in quam intrare non debent. Et post inquisitionem captam ceperunt Gilbertum personam ecclesiæ de Aldestone, et ipsum detinuerunt quousque finem fecisset cum eis per unum equum de pretio 1*s.* per sic quod posset esse per manucaptionem usque adventum justitiæ apud Tyndale. Ideo præceptum est Hugoni Galun, ballivo libertatis de Tyndale, quod distringat prædictos Robertum et Johannem per omnes terras et catalla, etc. Et quod habeat corpora eorum apud Novum Castrum super Tynam in comitatu Northumbriæ in quindena sancti Hillarii<sup>2</sup> ad respondendum, etc.<sup>3</sup>

Walterus Henriotbrothir, captus pro quodam equo furato, venit et defendit omne latrocinium et totum, etc. Et de bono et malo ponit se super patriam. Et jurati dicunt quod furavit prædictum equum in Jonestone in Scotia nunc in Augusto, et remittatur gaolæ donec rex inde consulerit, etc. Catalla prædicti Walteri Henriotesbrother *x*s., unde vicecomes respondebit. Postea mandavit dominus rex quod inquisita consuetudine patriæ, procederent in hujusmodi feloniis factis in regno Scotiæ, prout alias fieri consueverit [in itinere] 'alias.' Et super hoc inquisitum est quod hujusmodi felonix non dampnentur in regno isto, nisi ad sectam alicujus, etc. Et non est hic aliquis qui sequitur. Ideo ipse inde quietus ad præsens.<sup>4</sup>

Ricardus de Soules dat de fine pro respectu habendo c. a. per plegium Michaelis de Harcla, vicecomitis.

Idem Ricardus de Soules rectatus de hoc quod quemdam Ricardum le Taylleur, fugitivum de partibus Skotiae, captum in comitatu isto, abduxit, contra voluntatem ipsius Ricardi le Tayllur, in contemptum domini regis de regno Angliae, usque Skotiam, etc. Et ipse modo venit et profert cartam domini regis nunc, quae testatur quod idem dominus rex, ad instantiam dilectorum et fidelium suorum Willelmi de Soules et Johannis de Soules, pardonavit praedicto Ricardo de Soules omnem actionem quae sibi competere potuit erga ipsum, occasione praedictae transgressionis. Et super hoc idem dominus rex mandavit justiciis suis hic quod praedictum Ricardum de Soules in itinere suo occasione praedicta non molestarent, seu in aliquo gravarent, contra tenorem praedictae cartae; quia per eandem cartam concessit pro se et heredibus suis eidem Ricardo 'quod' in perpetuum sit quietus, etc. Teste ipso domino rege, apud Berewike super Twedam, xiiij die Novembris, anno regni sui xx.<sup>1</sup>

Et praedictus Ricardus le Talyur 'alias' indictatus fuit de latrocinio facto in partibus Scotiae, modo venit; et quaesitus qualiter se velit acquietare, defendit totum, etc., et de bono et malo ponit se super patriam. Et jurati dicunt super sacramentum suum quod non est culpabilis. Ideo ipse inde quietus.<sup>2</sup>

De felonibus suspensis, etc., dicunt quod Hugo Bolare captus fuit ad sectam cujusdam Gilberti le Gos per Johannem Page, ballivum Roberti le Brus, pro quodam bove furato, et ductus in plena curia Roberti de Brus de Glassanby. Et praedictus Hugo dixit quod habuit praedictum bovem ex liberatione et venditione cujusdam Willelmi le Lung, qui praesens fuit, et optulit se defendere se per corpus suum, quod nunquam praedictum bovem habuit ex liberatione sua. Et praedictus Hugo optulit se paratum 'ad' contrarium probandum per corpus suum. Per quod consideratum fuit per considerationem ejusdem curiæ quod duellum inde esset inter eos, quod quidem duellum vadiatum, aramiatum et percussum fuit inter eos, ita quod prædictus Hugo in duello illo victus, per considerationem ejusdem curiæ suspensus. 'Catalla ejus in Aldestone.'

Dicunt quod ipsi clamunt hujusmodi [appella] 'duella' in curia sua prædicta terminare modo prædicto, et similiter ipsi et antecessores præfatæ Christianæ, uxoris ejus, in curia prædicta facere consueverunt a tempore quo non extat memoria. Et hoc parati sunt verificare prout curia consideraverit, etc. Et quæsitum ulterius inter quos alios duellum in curia prædicta in casu consimili fuerit terminatum, dicunt quod non constat eis de aliquo; sed dicunt quod consimilis consuetudo est per totum comitatum, etc.

Et abbas per attornatum suum venit et defendit jus, etc.

A.D. 1292
Nov. 3.

Et dicit quod quidam Alanus, pater ipsius Roberti, qui prædicta tenementa habuit, inde feofavit quendam abbatem de Caldre, prædecessorem ipsius abbatis, tenenda sibi et ecclesiæ suæ de Caldre, et successoribus suis abbatibus de Caldre, in perpetuum. Et de ipso Willelmo, quia obiit sine herede de se, descendit jus, etc., cuidam Roberto, ut fratri et heredi. Et de ipso Roberto descendit jus, etc., cuidam Gilberto, ut filio et heredi. Et de ipso Gilberto descendit jus, etc., cuidam Gilberto, ut filio et heredi. Et de ipso Gilberto descendit jus, etc., isti Henrico, qui nunc petit, ut filio et heredi. Et quod tale sit jus suum affert, etc.

Et Robertus et Christiana venerunt et defendunt jus, etc. Et dicunt quod dominus J. rex avus domini regis nunc, dedit et concessit et carta sua confirmavit cuidam Edardo de Hodalmia, pro homagio et servitio suo villas de Gamelsby et Glassanby cum pertinentiis, etc., (qui quidem Edardus fuit avus istius Christianæ, cujus heres ipsa est, etc.) tenendas eidem Odardo et heredibus suis de ipso et here-dibus suis; reddendo inde per annum duas marcas de cornagio pro omni servitio. Et profert cartam prædicti domini J. regis, quæ prædictum donum testatur. Unde dicunt quod non possunt prædicto Henrico sine domino rege inde respondere.

THE REIGN OF JOHN BALLIOL.

1292. Dec. 22.—Extracts from the Roll of the Court of King's Bench at Newcastle, in Matters connected with Scotland.<sup>1</sup>

Placita coram ipso domino rege Angliæ, superiore domino regni Scotiæ, et consilio suo apud Novum Castrum super Tynam, die lunæ proxima ante natale Domini, anno regni regis Edwardi vicesimo primo.

SCOTIA.

Magister Rogerus Bertelmen, burgensis de Berewyke, alias coram ipso domino rege apud Berewyke (videlicet, in crastino sancti Nicholai proximo præterito),<sup>2</sup> questus fuit quod cum idem dominus rex, superior dominus regni Scotiæ, dum idem regnum in manum suam, ratione superioritatis dominii sui ejusdem regni, extitisset, quosdam justiciarios suos et auditores querelarum in eodem regno constituisset, ut querelas quorumcumque audirent, et facerent, et justitiam singulis exhiberent in querelis coram eis porrectis, iidem justiciarii et auditores in quibusdam querelis contra ipsum Rogerum coram eis porrectis et placitatis, minus rite et contra omnimodam justitiam, et etiam consuetu-

Propter quod præfatus dominus rex processus et recorda subsequentia coram præfatis justiciariis et auditoribus placitata et habita, et in quibus idem Rogerus querebatur sibi injuriari, venire fecit coram eo et consilio suo, et etiam partes eorundem processuum et recordorum ad diem istum; ut, inspectis processibus et recordis illis, errorem (si quis in eisdem inveniretur) emendari faceret, et partibus exhibere complementum justitiæ. Et quæ processus et recorda missa fuerunt per præfatos justiciarios in forma subscripta, etc.

Extracts from the pleas heard before the guardians of Scotland, October 18, 1291, in the suit between Margery Moyne and Roger Bartholomew.

prædictis pueris quaterviginti marcæ per allocationem eidem Willemo inde factam. Dicit etiam quod de prædictis ix<sup>xx</sup> libris posuerat ipse Rogerus in quandam cistam lx libras, et illam cistam sigillo suo signavit; et quod prædicta Margeria processu temporis prædictam cistam aperuit et prædictas lx libras abinde cepit et asportavit, et inde voluntatem suam fecit, ipso Rogero nesciente, ita quod a retro non sunt de prædictis ix<sup>xx</sup> libris nisi c marcæ tantum. Et hoc offert, etc.

A.D. 1292.
Dec. 22.

Et prædicta Margeria dicit quod nunquam conventum fuit de sustentatione prædictorum puerorum cum prædicto Willemo in forma prædicta pro prædictis quaterviginti marcis per annum pro quolibet puero reddendis. Et hoc petit quod inquiratur, etc. Et quoad prædictas lx libras, dicit quod sequestratores episcopi Sancti Andreae, ad instantiam et per voluntatem prædicti Rogeri, sigillum suum a prædicta cista amoverunt et prædictas lx libras abinde asportaverunt, et illas ex mutuo prædicti Rogeri et per consensum ipsius Rogeri prædicto episcopo traderunt, ita quod ad commodum prædictæ Margeriæ non devenerunt, sicut ei imponit; et quod ita sit petit ut inquiratur. Et Rogerus similiter; ideo fiat inde jurata.

Dec. 22.

conventum fuit per aliquem cum prædicto Willelmo de sustentatione prædictorum puerorum pro quatuor marcis, nec pro aliquo denario per annum pro quolibet puero reddendo, sicut Rogerus dicit. Sed bene dicunt quod prædicta Margeria cepit prædictas lx libras de prædicta cista, et commodum suum pro voluntate sua inde fecit, sicut Rogerus dicit. Et ideo consideratum est quod prædicta Margeria recuperet quaterviginti marcas versus prædictum Rogerum, et dampna sua. Et idem Rogerus in misericordia. Et quoad prædictas lx libras, consideratum est quod prædictus Rogerus eat inde quietus. Et prædicta Margeria nichil inde capiat, sed sit in misericordia pro falso clameo, etc.

In a second suit
same parties.

Eadem Margeria Moygne optulit se versus eundem Rogerum Bertelmeu, executorem testamenti Willelmi auri-fabri, quondam viri ipsius Margeriæ, et dicit quod idem Rogerus ei injuste detinet cc marcas sterlingorum, de quibus prædictus Willelmus, quondam vir suus, ipsam ad hostium ecclesiæ dotavit. Et ideo injuste, etc. Quia dicit quod bona ejusdem Willelmi post ejus obitum ad manus prædicti Rogeri, tanquam executoris, devenerunt. Et dicit quod dampnum habet ad valentiam c. librarum, etc.

Et Rogerus venit et dicit quod ipse non tenetur ei ad hoc respondere, quia dicit quod idem Willelmus non habuit bona ad satisfaciendum creditoribus suis die quo obiit. Et petit judicium si prædicta mulier debeat præferri et audiri in petitione sua dotis antequam debita alia plenarie solvantur.

Et prædicta mulier dicit quod petitio sua est principale debitum, et secundum consuetudinem burgorum debet præferri omnibus aliis debitis, et prius solvi.

Et Rogerus dicit quod non est principale debitum, et quod petitio dotis non debet solvi antequam alia debita solvantur; et petit quod justiciarii certificentur super legem et consuetudinem burgorum per quatuor burgos. Et postea ad judicium. Et Margeria petit hoc similiter secundum dictum quatuor burgorum, etc. Ideo consulendum est cum quatuor burgis contra proximum parliamen-tum hic. Et tunc ad iudicium.

A.D. 1292.
Dec. 22.

Et quia in manu Philippi de Rydale inventi sunt xiiij
sacci lanæ de bonis prædicti Willelmi, per prædictum Rogerum depositi, præceptum est eidem Philippo quod prædictos xiijsaccos lanæ in manu sua salvo custodiat quousque de prædictis cc marcis inter partes plenarie fuerit discussum, etc.

Postea, die lunæ proximo post festum inventionis sanctæ crucis<sup>1</sup> venerunt partes. Et prædicti quatuor burgi requisiti fuerunt de consuetudine burgorum, si petitio dotis sit principale debitum, necne, et si debeat solvi præ aliis debitis.
Qui dixerunt quod lex et consuetudo burgorum Scotiæ talis est, quod petitio dotis est principale debitum, et quod præ aliis debitis debet solvi.

Et quia compertum est per recordum et veredictum quatuor burgorum quod lex et consuetudo talis est; et prædictus Rogerus nichil aliud dicit per quod ipsas cc marcas disrationare non debet; ideo consideratum est quod prædicta Margeria recuperet prædictas cc marcas versus prædictum Rogerum, ut dotem suam et dampna
sua. Et idem Rogerus in misericordia. Et præceptum est Philippo de Rydale quod liberare faciat eidem Margerie prædictos xiiij saccos lanæ in manu sua prius arestatos, in partem solutionis prædictarum cc mar-carum, in quantum se extendere poterunt, secundum æstimationem et consuetudinem mercatorum fideliter ex-tentos, etc.

Et modo veniunt prædictus Rogerus, et similiter præ-dicta Margeria per Walterum virum et attornatum suum.
Et prædictus Rogerus queritur quod per præfatos justi-ciarios et auditores in præfatis processibus et recordo mani-feste erratum est et sibi injuriatum; in hoc primo, quod cum ad manus suas de bonis seu catallis prædicti defuncti non devenerunt ultra viginti et septem libras ad plus, præfati justiciarii et auditores ipsum solum et absque hoc quod executor suus in iudicio veniret, licet idem Rogerus coram eis allegaret se non debere de aliquo tangente testamentum prædictum sine coexecutore suo respondere, consideraverunt quod prædicta Margeria recuperaret versus eum, tam in querela prima ratione et nomine puerorum suorum, quam in subsequenti querela nomine dotis ejusdem Margeriæ, una cum dampnis suis ad valentiam quadringentarum librarum et amplius; prout patet per iudicia in eisdem recordis contenta. Et petit quod processus et recorda prædicta examinentur et in hoc emendentur, etc.

Dec. 22.

Postea 'tam' super recordo isto quam super recordo subsequenti de dote ipsius Margeriæ, prædictus Rogerus et prædicta Margeria, per prædictum virum suum et attornatum, concordati sunt per licentiam curiæ. Et est forma concordiæ inter partes prædictas factæ primo in præsentia eorumdem in plena curia recitata, et postea per cyrographum inde inter eos confectum in modum subsequentem affirmata et in scripturam redacta, et ad maiorem securitatem (ne una pars vel alia eandem pacem infringat) in rotulo isto irrotulata. Et similiter, quia tangit testamentum, dictum est episcopo sancti Andreae, loci dyocesano, quod auctoritate ordinaria eandem pacem perficere faciat et teneri, etc.

CONCORDIA, UNDE SCRIPTUM.

Magister Rogerus Bertelmeu et Walterus de Thorntone, et Margeria uxor ejus, concordati sunt in hunc modum; videlicet, quod prædictus magister Rogerus, executor testamenti Willelmi aurifabri, concessit et dedit prædictis Waltero et Margeriæ plenariam potestatem administrandi de omnibus bonis et catallis quæ fuerunt prædicti Willelmi die obitus sui, tam infra regnum Scotiæ quam Angliæ. Et quod liberabit eisdem inventarium quod factum fuit in devenerunt, sive in dicto inventario specificentur, sive non. Ita tamen, quod quicquid idem Rogerus rationabiliter expendit ratione probationis testamenti prædicti, et relaxationis sequestrationis episcopi Sancti Andreae, et ratione litium motarum versus ipsum de debitis prædicti Willelmi in foro ecclesiastico, et quicquid dedit rationabiliter pro debitis ipsius Willelmi acquietandis; et similiter quod acquietent eum versus Johannem filium Willelmi aurifabri de sexdecim libris ab eodem mutuatis circa funera et in vita ipsius Willelmi dum languidus fuit expensis, sicut idem Rogerus rationabiliter monstrare poterit. Et quod prædicti Walterus et Margeria faciant administrationem dictorum bonorum in omnibus et per omnia, et similiter omnibus respondeant, eodem modo quo idem Rogerus facere et respondere deberet, quantum catalla illa sufficiant et rationabiliter respondere debeant.

Et prædicti Walterus et Margeria concesserunt quod prædictus Rogerus rehabeat omnia messuagia et tenementa in villa de Berewyke quæ liberata fuerunt prædictæ Margeriæ per ballivos de Berewyke; et etiam omnia tenementa quæ per prædictam Margeriam clericis et marescall' liberata fuerunt in eadem villa de Berewyke, de quibus idem Rogerus prius fuit seysitus, simul cum firmis et redditibus de dictis tenementis in medio tempore provenientibus, quæ prædicti Walterus et Margeria inde receperunt, vel rationabiliter recepisse poterunt. Ita tamen quod si firmam aliquorum tenementorum plenarie non receperint, dum tamen firma illa in manibus tenentium tenementorum illorum extiterit, in nullo onerentur; sed bene liceat eidem Rogero de tenentibus illas firmam illam levare et recipere.

Et similiter concesserunt dicti Walterus et Margeria quod prædicti Rogerus et heredes sui quieti sint ab omni exactione et demanda quæ prius eisdem competebant ratione alicujus judicii coram custodibus regni Scotiæ prius versus prædictum Rogerum redditum pro prædicta Margeria. Et quod prædicti Walterus et Margeria quieti sint ab omni demanda et exactione quæ idem Rogerus tanquam executor dicti Willelmi versus eos prius habuit, vel aliquo modo habere potuit, exceptis hiis quæ in scripto isto continentur superius. Et omnia ista fiant citra festum purificationis beatæ Mariæ,<sup>1</sup> per episcopum sancti Andreae, vel ejus ordinarium, præterquam de seysina dictorum tenementorum rehabenda, quamcito commode fieri poterit per ballivos de Berewyke. Præterea sciendum est quod ista forma concordie facta 'fuit' præsentem co-executore<sup>2</sup> testamenti prædicti, et eam concedente, etc.

In a suit between Michael le Spicer and Roger Bartholomew.

Et prædictus Rogerus venit et defendit vim et injuriam, et quicquid, etc. Et dicit quod ingressus est prædictum burgagium per judicium curiæ de Berewyke, eo quod idem Rogerus impetravit breve de recto super prædictum burgagium in curia de Berewyke coram ballivis ejusdem villæ, et prosequutus fuit tantum quod habuit assisam in prædicta curia de prædicto burgagio; per quam assisam recuperavit seysinam suam versus prædictum Michaelem, etc.

Et prædictus Michael venit et dicit quod illa assisa non debet ei nocere secundum legem Scotiæ, quia capta fuit in absentia sua, et non per assensum suum. Et quod hoc sit verum petit ut inquiratur.

Et magister Rogerus dicit quod assisa illa capta fuit in præsentia prædicti Michaelis, et per assensum prædicti Michaelis. Et quod ita sit petit ut inquiratur. Et Michael similiter, etc.

Postea, die lunæ proxima post festum inventionis sanctæ crucis<sup>3</sup> venerunt juratores apud Edineburghe ex consensu partium electi; et dicunt super sacramentum suum quod prædicta assisa capta fuit contra inhibitionem et absque consensu prædicti Michaelis, et etiam in absentia ipsius Michaelis, contra legem Scotiæ. Et ideo consideratum est quod prædictus Michael recuperet versus prædictum Rogerum seysinam suam de prædicto burgagio et dampna sua. Et prædictus Rogerus in misericordia, etc.

A.D. 1292.
Dec. 22.

Et modo veniunt prædicti Michael et Rogerus. Et idem Rogerus queritur quod in prædicto recordo erratum est in hoc quod prædictus Michael questus fuit quod idem Rogerus injuste ejecit eum de tenemento prædicto, de quo post mortem Alexandri regis Scotiæ pacifice seysitus fuit; et idem Rogerus ad hoc respondisset, quod intravit per assisam inter eos captam et per iudicium; et sic responsio illa satis ipsum excusavit de ejectione omnimoda, ex quo præfatus Michael concessit quod assisa inter eos transiit prout patet per recordum prædictum; qualitercunque dixit quod capta fuit in absentia sua, et contra inhibitionem suam. Cum, si per captionem assisæ gravaretur, hoc potius imputandum esset ballivis qui assisam ceperunt quam ipsi Rogero, ex quo captio assisæ directe pertinet ad curiam, et non ad partem sequentem vel tenentem. Et si ballivi obliti fuerint in exequendo officio, hoc ipsi Rogero non deberent præfati iusticiarii et auditores imputasse. Et petit quod recordum examinetur et emendetur.

Et prædictus Michael dicit quod in prædicto recordo in nullo erratum est; imo quod rite et juxta consuetudinem regni Scotiæ iusticiarii et auditores prædicti in iudicio prædicto processerunt, ex quo prædictus Rogerus gratis in inquisitionem prædictam se posuit, prout patet per recordum prædictum. Et petit quod recordum illud stet et manuteneatur.

Postea, coram ipso domino rege et ejus concilio recitato prædicto recordo, et etiam prædictis rationibus prædictorum Rogeri et Michaelis, per ipsum dominum regem concordatum est quod juxta consuetudinem regni Scotiæ in negotio prædicto procedatur. Propter quod vocatis de discretioribus regni Scotiæ tunc cum rege Scotiæ apud Novum Castrum prædictum existentibus, habitoque cum iis tractatu diligenti super legibus et consuetudinibus regni Scotiæ in casu consimili, quia per eorum testimonium et sacramentum quod domino regi Angliæ præstiterunt, compertum est quod quandocunque et qualitercunque aliquæ partes se posuerint gratis in inquisitionem patriæ in curia regis de quacunque re partes illas contingente, et curia ad hoc illas admiserit, secundum veredictum illius inquisitionis erit judicandum, et judicium executioni debet demandari et locum tenere. Et quia partes prædictæ gratis se posuerunt in inquisitionem prædictam; (videlicet, tam prædictus Rogerus quam prædictus Michael, et ea ratione inquisitio illa ligari debet juxta consuetudinem et legem regni Scotiæ;) consideratum est quod prædictum judicium stet in suo robore, et quod seysina prædicto Michaeli adjudicata sibi remaneat; salva actione prædicto Rogero, si quam de jure habeat versus prædictum Michaellem, de tenementis prædictis petendis.

Et similiter consideratum est, quod per sacramentum proborum et legalium hominum de villa prædicta, coram majore et ballivis ejusdem villæ, in præsentia prædictorum Rogeri et Michaelis, et neutri eorum suspectorum, inquiretur quæ dampna idem Michael habuit occasione ejectionis prædictæ per prædictum Rogerum sibi factæ a tempore ejectionis usque diem quo judicium prædictum pro eo transiit coram præfatis justiciariis et auditoribus; ita quod si idem Michael plus levaverit, aut levasse aut percipisse potuisset rationabiliter, de terris et bonis prædicti Rogeri sibi liberatis et tenendis quousque dampna sua levaverit ratione prædicti judicii, quam dampna se extendunt, id quod plus levaverit eidem Rogero restituatur. Et si ad plenum non levaverit, juxta veredictum inquisi-

Gilbertus de Dunbar optulit se versus magistrum Rogerum Bertelmeu de placito transgressionis; et unde queritur quod idem Rogerus coram majore de Berewyke ipsum malitiose attachiari fecit eo quod ipse casu fortuito et ignoranter, non malitiose nec per aliquam feloniam, cum una virga parumper tetigit, unde idem Rogerus nullum malum vel dampnum sustinuit. Et etiam pendente eodem attachiamento, ubi prædictus Gilbertus venit ad nundinas de Hadintone pro quibusdam negotiis suis expediendis, ibi venit prædictus Rogerus et ipsum malitiose traxit in placitum in curia camerarii ibidem super eodem modico delicto, imponens ei in eadem curia quod idem Gilbertus ipsum in oculo suo malitiose mahemiaverat; et in petitione dampnorum suorum c libras posuit, eo quod ipsum Gilbertum ad se defendendum minus sufficientem vidit, et ita ipsum in eadem curia vexavit, et alia scandala et opprobria ei intulit injuste et malitiose; unde deterioratur et dampnum habet ad valentiam xl librarum, etc.

A.D. 1292.
Dec. 22.

In a suit between Gilbert de Dunbar and Roger Bartholomew.

Et Rogerus venit et dicit quod nullam injuriam ei fecit, nec ipsum Gilbertum malitiose implacitavit, set juste et secundum legem et consuetudinem regni Scotiæ, quia prædictus Gilbertus magnam molestiam ei intulerat. Et quod ipse nulla scandala aut opprobria prædicto Gilberto intulit injuste. Et de hoc ponit se super inquisitionem. Et Gilbertus similiter, etc.

Jurati ex consensu partium electi venerunt et dicunt super sacramentum suum quod prædictus Rogerus malitiose et contra leges regni et etiam injuste, pendente attachiamento coram majore et ballivis de Berewyke, prædictum Gilbertum in curia camerarii implacitavit, vexavit, et alia opprobria ei intulit. Et dicunt quod prædictus Gilbertus nullam molestiam vel violentiam prædicto Rogero intulerat, sicut ei in eadem curia imposuit. Ideo consideratum est quod prædictus Gilbertus recuperet dampna sua versus prædictum Rogerum; et idem Rogerus in misericordia. Et quia compertum est per inquisitionem quod prædictus Gilbertus nullam molestiam prædicto

Rogero fecit, consideratum est quod prædictus Rogerus amittat de cætero actionem suam versus prædictum Gilbertum quoad prædictam transgressionem quam eidem Gilberto malitiose imposuit.

Et modo venerunt prædicti Rogerus et Gilbertus. Et idem Rogerus queritur quod in recordo isto manifestissimus error intervenerit in hoc quod consideratum fuit quod idem Rogerus amitteret actionem suam versus prædictum Gilbertum de quadam transgressionem eidem Rogero per præfatum Gilbertum facta, et prout idem Gilbertus in querela sua prædicta quam versus eum narravit expresse cognovit, et de qua transgressionem idem Rogerus nunquam emendas aliquas habuit, nec versus eum unquam in aliqua curia ad prædictam transgressionem convincendam prosecutus fuit. Et similiter in eodem iudicio erratum fuit in hoc quod consideratum fuit quod idem Gilbertus recuperet dampna sua versus eundem Rogerum, cum in nullo versus eum deliquit, etc.

Et prædicti iudicarii et auditores, et similiter prædictus Gilbertus, dicunt quod intendunt quod in recordo et processu prædictis bene processum est; et quod iudicium prædictum absque aliquo errore redditum est. Et petunt quod si domino regi et ejus consilio visum sit quod iudicium prædictum bonum sit, quod manuteneatur et affirmetur, et si aliquis error intervenerit, quod iudicium illud emendetur, prout fuerit faciendum. Et super hoc examinato recordo prædicto plenius et intellecto, quia in eodem recordo continetur quod prædictus Gilbertus, narrando versus prædictum Rogerum, cognovit se fecisse eidem transgressionem quandam, de qua quidem transgressionem idem Rogerus nunquam aliquas emendas habuit, et ab actione cujus transgressionis prosequenda idem Rogerus per iudicium prædictum exclusus est. Et sic si iudicium prædictum suo robore staret, remaneret transgressio cognita et confessa in curia regis impunita, quod esset inconveniens, cum idem Gilbertus, ratione confesratione transgressionis sibi factæ puniendus ; de qua quidem transgressionem nullas emendas prosecutus fuit, nec iudicarii et auditores prædicti scire potuerunt aliquo modo si prædictus Rogerus pro illa et eadem transgressionem attachiare fecit prædictum Gilbertum in prædictis nundinis, pro qua idem Gilbertus alibi (ut supra scribitur) attachiatus fuit, nisi idem Rogerus prius narrasset versus eum de aliqua transgressionem sibi per præfatum Gilbertum facta, cum per attachiamentum tantum quod querens aliquis faciat versus alium de placito transgressionis, ita generaliter dicendo scire non poterit de qua transgressionem idem querens versus attachiatum, cum illud in curia viderit, narrare voluerit ; nec idem Rogerus unquam coram ballivis de Berewyke nisi primo attachiavit se ad sequendum versus prædictum Gilbertum de aliqua transgressionem narravit, ut dicitur, et prout idem Gilbertus expresse fatetur ; nec idem Gilbertus unquam in eadem curia coram ballivis prædictis comparuit ad respondendum eidem Rogero de prædicta transgressionem, aut aliqua alia, ratione attachiamenti prædicti, et sic nullo modo scire potuerunt utrum fuit eadem transgressio vel alia ; consideratum est quod prædictum iudicium pro prædicto Gilberto per præfatos iudicarios redditum pro nullo pronuncietur et omnino annullatur, et executio ejusdem totaliter suspendatur. Et quod prædictus Rogerus habeat actionem suam de prædicta transgressionem versus prædictum Gilbertum, si sibi viderit expedire, non obstante iudicio prædicto. Et similiter, quod quicquid prædictus Gilbertus de dampnis sibi adjudicatis versus prædictum Rogerum per iudicium prædictum levaverit aut perceperit prædicto Rogero restituat, etc.

Et iterato petitus fuit per Hugonem Gobyun, vicecomitem; cui responsum fuit per Ricardum Fresel, vicecomitem regis Scotiæ apud Berewycke, quod super hoc vellet consulere dominum regem, eo quod extraneus fuit et de novo factus vicecomes.
